Brief Legislative Sessions.

The Senate had nothing important on hand Saturday and adjourned, after fixing September 11 as memorial day for the late Senators Bell and Hill. The Jones resolution of Friday, seeking to limit the subject to be considered by the Election Committee, was referred to that committee.

Leaves of absence were granted to Senators Roberts, Gillispie, Miller, Kirk, Jolly and Frazier.

The House adjourned without an order being made except to place Representative Nuckols on the same committee on which his predecessor, Mr. Stout served.

Neither the house nor Senate can make any progress in considering the election bills till the committees make a report.

Will History Repeat Itself?

(New York World.)

No President has been re-elected since Grant—that is, in twenty-eight years.

No President has been re-nominated since Grant except Harrison and Cleveland, and both were defeated for a second term—that is, no President since Grant has had a second continuous term.

In 1888 Cleveland seemed to be absolutely sure of re-election, but he was defeated.

In 1892 Harrison seemed to be sure of re-election, but he was defeated.

Will Mr. McKinley furnish a third example, and history repeat itself?

Political Topics.

Mr. BRYAN dined with Gen. Joe Wheeler Sunday night at Chicago. Mr. Bryan will rest a few days before beginning his tour of the country.

Democrats will deliver another round of speech-making this week, Gov. Beckham speaking at Leitchfield, accompanied by Congressman Wheeler, and Ex-Gov. speaking at Elkton.

Chairman Martin, of the Indiana Democratic State Committee, says he is confident the Democrats will carry the State by a large majority.

Trouble For Trimble.

The Hon. W. B. Moody, through his attorneys, Lindsay & Botts, has filed a mandamus suit to compel the County Clerk of Owen to put Mr. Moody's name under the Democratic emblem on the official ballot as the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Seventh district.

County Clerk Claud Chinn, of Fayette, has accepted the credentials of W. B. Moody as Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, and will put his name on the ballot.

County Clerk Paton, of this county, has refused to accept either Moody or Trimble credentials until the matter is settled by a court decision.

Chinese Versus American Dress.
In matters of dress, of course, the women of the western world differ conspicuously from those of the east. Here styles are changing constantly with the years and seasons, almost with the days. In the east it is not so. The cut and style remain the same; novelty is not sought in fabrics—silks are most used. These are richly embroidered, both the undergarments and the overgarments. The women of China are skillful needlewomen and most of the work on their clothes is done at home. Among the poorer classes woolen and cotton are used for the coarser working garments. The shape of the garments is designed to cover the person, not to fit it tightly, and beauty is secured in the texture and embroidery instead of from odd shapes and frills and furbelows.

There is no such thing as low neck and short sleeves in China, and it is a long established custom that the folds of the garment must be quite ample. The trousers worn by us a Chinese woman deems indispensable to modest attire. When American, French, English—your civilized women—visit our country I cannot say which feature of their dress shocks Chinese women most, whether the décolleté cut of the evening bodice or the fact that they wear no trousers. I have read of your dress reformers who advocate bloomers, and how immodest this is thought to be here. If the bloomers covered the leg to the ankle Chinese women would regard them a vast improvement on your present style of apparel.—Mme. Wu in Harper's Bazar.

Sachet Powder of Dried Rose Leaves.
Among flowers the scent of the fragrant "common rose" is a favorite. To make a sachet powder the petals should be plucked separately and strung on a piece of white cotton twine, hanging in a shady open place for about a week, and if at the end of that time they have dried sufficiently to crumble into a powder they may be removed, powdered and put up into sachets, otherwise they must hang till perfectly dry and crisp. Care must be taken to prevent the sun shining on the petals, otherwise the oil in them which contains the scent is drawn away. These powders should retain their scent for a long time, owing to the scented oil of the flower being dried in the particles.

Women in Photography.

Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston of Washington will read a paper before the international congress of photography at Paris this summer on the "Work of the Women of the United States in Photography." Miss Johnston is one of the two women delegates to the congress. She has made a study of photography as a means of illustration from an artistic and mechanical standpoint. She was the first photographer to give to the world photographs of the frescoes in the Congressional library, having taken them from the scaffolding.

Women Lawyers in Maine.

Miss Agnes M. Robinson of Sherman, Me., was recently admitted to the bar. She is the third woman lawyer in the state. The first was Miss Helen A. Knowlton, for whose benefit the state of Maine passed a law at the last session of the legislature allowing the admission of women. Miss Knowlton has been practicing nine months. The second woman was Miss Belle Ashton of Sanford, who was admitted early this summer.

Preparatory to cooking string beans break off both ends of the pods and after stringing pare both edges lightly with a sharp knife. It shows a slovenly and careless habit if the stringy fibers are left, and to fastidious eaters nothing can be more disagreeable. The entire dish is often rejected when the unpleasant labor of separating the strings is thus contemplated.
